All the participants from School of Education (SE), NSS, and Yoga club gathered at the campus of Central University of Gujarat (CUG) in the morning of 7th September 2019. As per the schedule, all the participants left for Amja village to perform the various task under the green audit. The task that was first scheduled to be performed was creating awareness among school children at Amja village regarding the benefits of plantation in saving our environment. The Government Elementary School had projectors and smartboard in every class. All the classrooms and walls were decorated with beautiful pictures. A proper drinking water facilities and dustbins were also there at the school campus.

Pencil boxes and fruits were provided by the CUG team to about 300 school students. The student then marched outside their school campus in the village with some of them holding a sapling and placards in their hand displaying messages to sensitize people about the awareness to protect the environment.

They were accompanied by the students, scholars, NSS, Yoga Club volunteers and faculties from Central University of Gujarat who were managing the entire event. Students and teachers participated with enthusiasm in the Green Audit Programme. At the end of the program, there was a photo session with the faculties, students and CUG team.

After the rally, participants from CUG disseminate in a group to collect data from the families living in Amja village related to their awareness towards environment protection, energy consumption, waste management, etc. Each group was accompanied by an electrician and plumber to offer free repairing services of any electrical or plumbing appliances at their home.

A survey were conducted based on questionnaire and used in the process of data collection to get an insight into their notion of environment protection, energy-saving, waste-management, and rain-water harvesting. The data was collected from around 10 families. The process of data collection was useful not only in understanding their notion related to the environment but also in building rapport with them and therefore they became quite comfortable in sharing their views. The peoples were happy with the services provided by green audit rally. Thereafter, the team of CUG left Amja village to reach back to the campus of Central University of Gujarat, Gandhinagar.

After reaching back to the campus the program again continued after lunch. The participants from the School of Education (SE) checked all the electric and plumbing appliances with the objective of saving electricity and water wastage at the University campus. Wherever the problem was found, it was being resolved by the electrician and plumber.

Finally, the Green Audit for community sensitization ended by achieving the target of sensitizing community regarding environment protection, cost-effective method of energy-saving, rain-water harvesting and waste management.
